

RACE HISTORY • Class Day

It took some time for rowing to become established at the University of Washington. The students organized the UW Amateur Rowing Association in January 1901. During the spring 1901, the students rowed in the first Inter-Class Race. The class of 1904 defeated the class of 1903. The form and name of this regatta has changed over the years. The women competed in "Junior Day" as early as 1907.

Today the Inter-Class Regatta is known as Class Day. This race kicks off the racing spring season each year and affords the winners shellhouse bragging rights. The men compete for the George M. Varnell Trophy, first presented in 1930. In the modern era the Women race for the Seattle Times Trophy, first presented in 1982.

RACE HISTORY • Windermere Cup/Opening Day

The Windermere Cup is held in conjunction with Opening Day of yachting season. Boats line the race course for the crew races and the Seattle Yacht Club's annual boat parade.

Windermere Cup/Opening Day • RACE HISTORY

Washington hosts an elite international field of competitors each year for the Windermere Cup/Opening Day races on Montlake Cut. The annual event is without a doubt one of the premier regattas in the sport of rowing. Competing crews enjoy spectacular racing and festivities that culminate in one of the most-watched events in the sport.

The feature races' sponsorship by Windermere Real Estate, Inc., which began in 1987, draws major national and international crews each year to the Windermere Cup Races. The Opening Day Regatta has been a traditional part of the opening of yachting season since 1970, and women's intercollegiate races were added to the schedule in 1976. The regatta is the preliminary event to the annual yacht club parade, signaling the beginning of boating season in the Northwest.

Tie-up moorage is available on both sides of Montlake

Cut, extending out from the Cut toward the start line of the race in Lake Washington, providing an ideal setting for spectators to view both the regatta and the parade of yachts that follows. Thousands of watersport enthusiasts have lined the Cut in recent years to witness first-hand one of the most exciting sporting events in the region — the Windermere Cup Races and Opening Day activities.

RACE HISTORY • Men's National Championships

The Intercollegiate Rowing Association Regatta (IRA) is the oldest collegiate rowing championship in the country, and remains the premier event for national rowing honors for college men. The first IRA Regatta, on June 24, 1895, was a four-miler between Columbia, the winner, Cornell and Pennsylvania.

The regatta has grown from that single race in 1895 to include championship competition in eight, four and pair-oared competition at the varsity, second varsity and freshmen levels for both men and women.

The rowing championship is conducted by the Intercollegiate Rowing Association that was organized at the beginning of the century. It consists of five eastern, traditional rowing schools, the original three schools, Columbia, Cornell and Pennsylvania, plus Navy and Syracuse. To this day, the Association is comprised of only these five schools and all other colleges participate as invited guests.

Much of the history of the IRA tends to focus on the great crews of Cornell, Navy, Washington and California and their coaches who established impressive winning records at the old regattas at Poughkeepsie and Lake Onondaga.

In 1923, Washington, coached by "Rusty" Callow, became the first Western school to win the IRA, followed by another victory in 1926. When Callow left Seattle to coach at Pennsylvania, he was succeeded by his assistant Al Ulbrickson who continued the Husky winning ways with six IRA titles in 1936, 1937, 1940, 1941 and 1948 and 1950. His freshman, jayvee and varsity crews "swept the river" in 1936, 1937, 1948 and 1950.

After competing in the national championships held annually on Lake Harsha in Cincinnati between 1983 and 1994, the UW returned to the IRA for its 100th anniversary in 1995. In 1997, the Huskies swept top honors in the three featured races for the first time since 1950.

UW won the varsity eight, junior varsity eight and open four championships in 2007 and captured the Ten Eyck trophy as the overall IRA points winner. Last season, the Huskies won the Ten Eyck trophy again for taking home titles in the varsity four, freshman four and second varsity eight.

Coxswains Katelin Snyder (varsity eight), Leah Downey (open four) and Micah Perrin (second varsity eight) pose with their respective 2007 men's IRA Championship trophies

Unofficial National Championships

Washington counts four "unofficial" national champions to its credit:

- 1933 - Defeated Harvard and Yale in 2,000-meter race
- 1977 - Varsity eight won the Pac-8 regatta, declared national champion after winning at Henley Royal Regatta, defeating Harvard and Cornell twice each and both the British and Irish National teams
- 1978 - Undeclared regular season, defeated all collegiate crews at Henley
- 1981 - Undeclared season, Washington's junior varsity won Ladies' Plate at Henley

Intercollegiate Rowing Association Championships

Prior to 1982 and since 1995, the Intercollegiate Rowing Association winner has been recognized as the national champion. Below are UW's finishes in the IRA Championships. The Huskies won 12 IRA varsity eight national titles.

Men's National Championships • RACE HISTORY

Varsity Challenge Cup

Presented to the IRA by Dr. Louis L. Seaman, (Cornell) in 1898, the silver cup goes annually to the college crew winning the Varsity race. Washington won the 2007 race. The Challenge Cup victory was the 12th title overall in the history of the Washington program, dating back to its first victory in 1923.

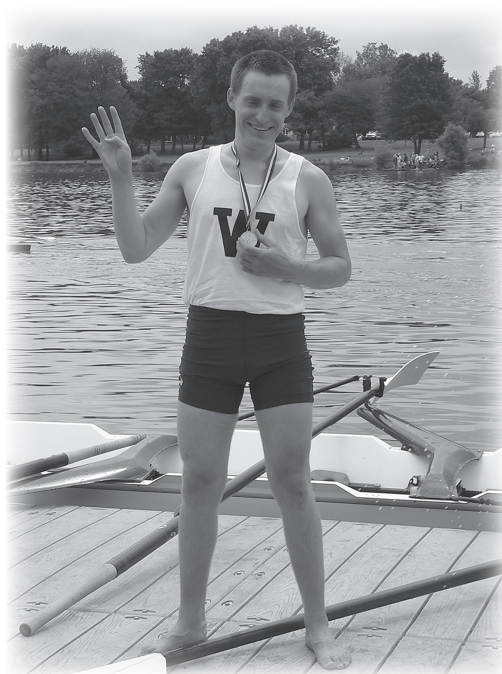

Kennedy Challenge Cup Trophy

This trophy was originally presented to the IRA in 1899 by Davidson Kennedy (Pennsylvania) to four-oared winners. The trophy is now annually awarded to the winner of the junior varsity race. Washington won the Kennedy Challenge Cup in 2004, 2005, 2007 and again in 2008. It was the Huskies' 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th all-time victories in Kennedy Cup competition.

Stewards Cup

The Stewards Cup, presented in 1900 to the IRA by Francis S. Banks (Columbia), goes to the Freshmen Eight champion. Washington won back-to-back Stewards Cup titles in 2001 and 2002. A gold medal in 2006 pushed its all-time total to 13.

In 2005, with a win in the JV Eight, Evan Galloway collected the last of four IRA championship gold medals he won during his career at Washington.

Husky rowers from the class of '49 display jerseys collected after each victory. UW dominated from 1948-50, winning eight IRA championships.

RACE HISTORY • Women's National Championships

The first women's collegiate championship was held in Oak Ridge, Tenn. in 1980. Washington is one of only three teams to be invited to all 11 NCAA Championships. The Huskies won their first varsity eight title in 1981, the first of an unprecedented five-straight varsity championships. Washington won back-to-back NCAA team titles in 1997 and 1998, including the program's first 1997. UW captured the 1980 lightweight eight and lightweight four titles. The race length for women was doubled in 1985 from 1,000 to 2,000 meters.

CREW HISTORY

WASHINGTON

The varsity eight's gold medal performance in 2001 sealed the Huskies' third team championship.

The UW varsity four, made up entirely of freshmen, won the 1999 NCAA title.

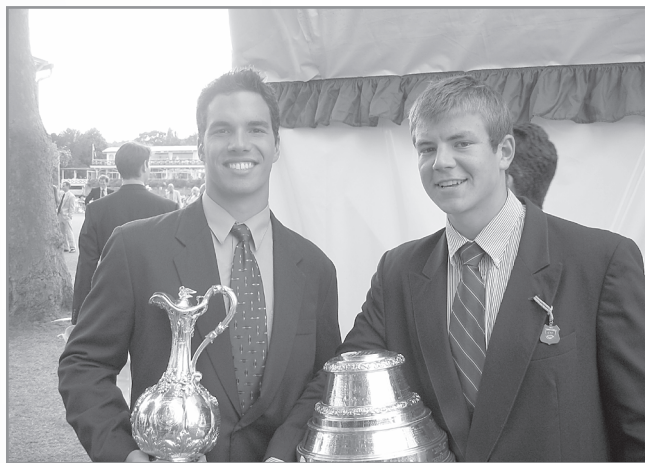

Washington won its second NCAA team title in 1998, claiming the championship with a gold medal in the varsity eight, silver in the junior varsity eight and bronze in the varsity four.

The 1998 UW varsity eight displays its championship plaques after a second-consecutive NCAA championship.

RACE HISTORY • Huskies at Henley (Men)

The 2003 Henley Ladies Challenge Plate trophy.

"The Henley Royal Regatta is undoubtedly the best known regatta in the world and it holds a unique place in the respect and affection of all oarsmen. Founded in 1839, it is famous both as a great sporting and social event. People travel from all over the world to attend, either as competitors or as spectators. Winning an event at Henley has always been considered one of the greatest achievements of an oarsman's rowing career, even amongst those who have become world champions; and an oarsman's rowing life is not complete if he has not rowed at Henley.

"Unlike all other major international regattas, racing at Henley is on a knock-out basis, with crews rowing two abreast over a course which is one mile, 550 yards (2,122 meters) long. Naturally, the tactics in such races are different from racing six abreast; but oarsmen who row almost all their serious races six abreast over 2,000-meter courses have found that the variety of racing at Henley adds greatly to the interest and enjoyment of their regatta season."

—Henley Royal Regatta

Washington made its first appearance at Henley in 1958, with coach Al Ulbrickson, and lost to a crew from the Soviet Union in the final of the Grand Challenge Cup. Soviet rowing officials invited UW for a rematch in Moscow, where the Huskies won.

It was another 15 years before Washington returned to Henley, this time with coach Dick Erickson. The Huskies again lost to the Soviet eight in the 1973 Grand Challenge.

In 1977, Erickson brought the Huskies back to Henley and Washington became the first U.S. crew in 18 years to win the Grand Challenge when it beat the British national crew by a length.

They made other trips with the junior varsity winning the Ladies Plate in both 1978 and 1981.

Washington christened a brand new boat at the Royal Regatta in 1997, an Empacher eight-oared shell that was delivered to Henley just prior to the Huskies' arrival in London. The $30,000 state-of-the-art racing shell, which was donated by an anonymous UW benefactor, is named The 101 in honor of the Seattle-based amateur sports booster organization, The 101 Club. The shell is nearly identical to the boat the Husky varsity races in the United States. The 101 is stored at Jesus College in Cambridge and used exclusively by Washington teams training and racing in future Henley Regattas.

Husky coach Bob Ernst carried special cargo with him to Henley, a plastic bottle of finish line water from Montlake Cut, to christen the new boat. Former Seattle police chief Patrick Fitzsimmons, who represented The 101 Club, christened the new shell by pouring the home course water over the bow of the boat.

More recently, Director of Rowing Bob Ernst took UW crews to Henley in 1991, '95, '97 and 2003. The 1997 varsity and junior varsity went to Henley on the heels of an IRA Championship that completed undefeated seasons for both crews.

The varsity entered in the Ladies Plate, and advanced to the grand final with victories over Australia's Melbourne University in the first heat and Oxford's Isis Boat Club in the semi-finals. They provided a thrilling race for spectators in the grand final, the closest match of the regatta, before losing to the British National Lightweight crew by one foot.

The Huskies' junior varsity advanced to the quarterfinals before finally falling to the Goldie Crew, made up of Cambridge University rowers in the Temple Challenge Cup.

In 2003, UW's varsity eight captured the Ladies Challenge Plate with an open-water victory over Rutgers. The Huskies defeated Moseley Boat Club/Imperial College of London in the semifinals following a quarterfinal triumph over Nottingham & Union/London Rowing Club. UW's varsity four advanced to the Britannia Challenge Cup quarterfinals.

This past summer, six Huskies crew won the Henley Regatta racing for their home country of Canada. The Husky-laden boat included four current oarsmen, one incoming freshman and one former Washington rower.

Huskies at Henley (Women) • RACE HISTORY

For the first time in program history, Washington sent a women's varsity eight crew to compete at the Henley Royal Regatta in Henley-on-Thames, England in July, 2000.

That year marked the introduction of a women's open eight race in the historical men's regatta. Racing took place July 1-2 with eight crews competing for the inaugural Henley Prize. In December 1999, the Henley Stewards decided to elevate the two-year old women's invitational race, that had been established to showcase international crews, to a full-fledged open-class prize event.

During the previous two regattas, there had been a four-boat women's exhibition race, by invitation only, for national teams. The year 2000 marked the first time the field had been opened to include eight women's boats. The women's race consisted of quarter-finals, semi-finals and a grand final for the Henley Prize.

In the historic first appearance, Washington wrote its name in the history books as it defeated the University of Victoria (Canada) in the grand final to capture the Henley Prize, the first women's trophy awarded since the historic men's regatta began in 1839.

The Huskies covered the 2,112-meter Thames River course in a time of 7 minutes, 29 seconds, crossing the finish line half a boat-length ahead of Victoria. The crews traded the lead all the way down the course and kept it only one foot apart over the last quarter of the race before the Huskies gradually began to break away towards the finish.

"This was an awesome race," said former Husky head coach Jan Harville after the race. "It's interesting how they keep splits here. At each marker on the course, signs go up saying who's ahead. We were ahead at the first mark by a foot. Then at the second marker, Victoria was ahead by a foot and then we went up again. I told our crew that Victoria had a fast boat and we would have to take the race away from them. We did it in the last 500 meters of the race. I am so proud that our crew could end its season this way. It was a tremendous opportunity to be here and represent the University of Washington."
