Coach Romar on Will Conroy

"Will is a warrior. He's taken and made many big shots over his career. He's had big games on the road. Soft-minded guys don't have big games on the road. Mentally tough kids play well on the road. He's had good road games. He has gotten better at distributing the ball over the last couple years. It's always been his goal to lead the Pac-10 in assists. Maybe this is the year that he can accomplish that."

Coach Romar on Alex Johnson

"I didn't know much about Alex when he came and walked on. I really learned to appreciate what he brings. He's a really good shooter who can play a couple different positions in the backcourt. He's pretty hard nosed too. He is a player that you can tell has been well coached in the past. He also has a terrific attitude."

University of Washington

Scholarship freshman who will red-shirt this season while rehabilitating from surgeries on both knees ... May be able to practice by mid season in preparation for full-time duty next year ... Projects as a physical presence in the middle for future Husky squads.

Natomas High School

The No. 9-rated center in the West among the high school class of 2004 by TheInsidersHoops.com ... Averaged 14.9 points and 10 rebounds as a junior in 2003 at Natomas ... Played only three games his senior season before undergoing surgery on both knees.

Coach Romar on Zach Johnson

"He will definitely red-shirt this year. Zach is a banger. He loves contact and does not mind mixing it up at all. In fact, he would prefer to mix it up. To be 6-8 and 245 and be as agile and fast as he is is unique. He's very quick. He'll red-shirt this year while he rehabs his knees. We imagine at some time during the year that he will begin practicing with us too and learn as much as he can this year. He can use either hand around the rim. He will outrun a lot of guys his size. He has a chance to be a really good player."
