NCAA WEST REGIONAL CHAMPION WASHINGTON HEADS TO CHAMPIONSHIPS IN TENNESSEE

Huskies are the No. 4 seed among 30 teams competing at The Honors Course

THE NCAA CHAMPIONSHIPS

Thirty teams and six individuals advanced from six regionals to the NCAA Championships at The Honors Course in Ooltewah, Tennessee hosted by the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga. Three rounds of stroke play will start on Tuesday, June 1 and run through Thursday. The top eight teams from stroke play will advance to match play, which runs Friday through Sunday. Only one round is scheduled per day with the tee times starting at 7:00 a.m. and running through 2:05 p.m.

Washington is seeded No. 4 overall after the NCAA Men's Golf Committee re-seeded teams. The Huskies will be paired with No. 5 Texas and No. 6 Texas Tech in the first and second rounds. UW will tee off at 12:30 p.m. from the No. 1 tee on Tuesday and at 7:20 a.m. from the 10th tee on Wednesday. Thursday's pairing will be determined by results after the second round. Husky Coach Matt Thurmond is going with the same lineup he used in the NCAA West Regional: seniors Nick Taylor, Richard Lee, Darren Wallace and freshmen Charlie Hughes and Chris Williams.

THE COURSE

Participants will play on The Honors Course, a par-72, 7,395-yard Pete Dye-designed track outside of Chattanooga, Tennessee. The last time The Honors Course hosted the NCAA Championship was in 1996 when Arizona State won the team title and Tiger Woods the individual championship.

LIVE COVERAGE

Live scoring will be available daily on Golfstat.com. In addition, GoHuskies.com will have daily recaps, quotes, video interviews and blogs about the tournament and NCAA.com will have live video of holes 16, 17 and 18 during the second and third round of stroke play.

HUSKY NOTES

UW DOMINATES THE WEST REGIONAL

Washington claimed its second-ever NCAA Regional team championship last week in the West at Gold Mountain Golf Complex in Bremerton, Wash. The Huskies lapped the field, winning by 29 strokes over USC and Illinois to claim its first regional title since 2002. Husky individuals swept the top three spots, another UW first. Richard Lee won by two strokes over Chris Williams and Darren Wallace tied for third, three shots off the lead. For Lee, he shot -8 (208) to claim his first collegiate individual championship and become the first Husky to win a regional.

TAYLOR TAKES HOME THE BEN HOGAN AWARD

Nick Taylor nabbed the Ben Hogan Award on May 24, the first Husky to ever win college golf's most prestigious individual honor. Taylor edged out Alabama's Bud Cauley and Georgia's Russell Henley in a ceremony at Colonial Country Club in Fort Worth, Texas. Taylor was a top-10 finisher in 9 of 12 events this season and has a team-best scoring average of 70.89. His stroke average is the second-lowest in team history. During the summer, after finishing tied for ninth at last year's NCAA Championships, he was low amateur at the U.S. Open where he tied for 36th. He spent 21 weeks at the top of the World Amateur Golf Rankings (June 15-Nov. 4, 2009) and currently occupies the top spot in the Players World Amateur Ranking (SPWAR). Two golfers from the state of Washington -- Ryan Moore of Puyallup (UNLV) and Kyle Stanley of Gig Harbor (Clemson) -- have won the award previously.

ACES WILD

Chris Williams not only set an Olympic Course record in the final round of the NCAA West Regional by shooting a 7-under-par 65, but he notched an amazing hole-in-one on the No. 8 hole. Williams hit a cut five-iron that dunked directly into the hole without bouncing or rolling. His shot took out the front lip of the cup and forced the groundscrew to move the hole about a foot away from its original spot. For Williams, the ace was the first of his career and set off a wild celebration with him and his playing partners, plus coach Matt Thurmond who witnessed the ball go in.

PAC-10 CHAMPS AGAIN

For the first time in school history, Washington claimed the Pac-10 Conference Championship in back-to-back years. The Huskies had to make an improbable rally to win their sixth overall conference championship. The UW trailed Stanford by seven strokes heading into the final round but came back to win by three strokes over the Cardinal. A par-saving 40-foot putt by Richard Lee secured the win for the Huskies. Lee finished third overall and shot a 14-under 270, the best four-round score ever by a Husky. Overall, Washington has won conference tournament titles in 2010, 2009, 2005, 1988, 1963 and 1961.

PAC-10 DOMINANCE

Making the Huskies Pac-10 Championship all the more impressive was the fact that the conference was arguably the toughest in the nation. Washington was one of four conference squads -- joining UCLA, Oregon and Stanford -- that earned a No. 1 seed in one of the six NCAA Regionals. Further validating the conference's strength were the No. 2 seeds earned by Arizona State and USC. All six of the aforementioned teams, plus California and Oregon State advanced to the upcoming NCAA Championships.

HUSKY HONORS

Washington was well-represented in the Pac-10 post-season honors announced after the conference championships. Nick Taylor was named the Pac-10 Co-Golfer of the Year, this first time a UW golfer has won the award twice, let alone once. Chris Williams also achieved another UW first by sharing Freshman of the Year honors. In addition, Williams was Second Team All-Pac-10, as was senior Richard Lee.

SENIOR POWER

Washington boasts four seniors -- three which are in the NCAA lineup -- that have left an indelible mark on the UW program. Nick Taylor is the Hogan Award Winner and a first-team PING All-American to go along with numerous amateur golf honors and Richard Lee and Darren Wallace each were third-team All-Americans as juniors. Lee is coming off a victory at the NCAA West Regionals, while Wallace was third and won the 2009 Pac-10 Championship.

DON'T CALL IT A COMEBACK

The Huskies staged two of their better comebacks in recent years to win tournaments this season -- ironically both coming at Arizona State's Karsten Golf Course where the Huskies historically play poorly. On April 3, the Huskies entered the final round of the ASU Thunderbird Invitational in seventh out of 16 teams and 16 strokes off the lead. But, behind a 16-under par 268 in the final round and four golfers shooting rounds in the 60s, the Huskies were able to comeback and win the tournament by two strokes. The other amazing comeback was in the Pac-10 Championships, which is chronicled in a previous note.

HUSKIES IN THE NCAA'S

The Huskies have appeared in NCAA Regionals in all of Matt Thurmond's nine seasons at the team's helm. They have advanced to the NCAA Championships in all but one of his seasons and in now 10 of the last 11 years overall. UW was a No. 1 seed in 2009, the school's first top seed, and finished fifth after stroke play action at the Championships. They ended up fifth after dropping a 3-2 decision in match play to Arkansas.

FRESHMAN SENSATION

Chris Williams is having arguably the finest season ever by a UW freshman. He is second on the team with a 71.14 stroke average and two wins under his belt this season, taking home medalist honors in the Battle at the Beach & ASU Thunderbird Invitational. Williams' two wins are the most by a UW freshman in school history. Also, his 71.28 stroke average would rank as the fourth or fifth best in team history and best-ever by a freshman. His third round 8-under 63 equals the best third round score in a tournament.
