HEAD COACH JUNE DAUGHERTY (EIGHTH YEAR)

June Daugherty enters her eighth year as head coach at Washington, seeking to guide a young team to a seventh postseason appearance in her brief tenure. A positive and energetic coach, Daugherty has guided Washington to the forefront of women's basketball in the Pac-10 and around the country.

One of 25 finalists for the prestigious Naismith Coach of the Year Award last year, guided the Huskies to their sixth postseason appearance and fourth NCAA Tournament berth in 2003. Last year, Washington posted its first 20-win regular season under Daugherty, as well as its second 22-win season in the last three years. For the second straight season, the Huskies tied for second in the Pac-10 standings with their best conference record during Daugherty's tenure, 13-5.

The 2003 season also saw junior Giuliana Mendiola become the first Husky ever to garner Pac-10 Player of the Year honors. A successful season was also capped by a perfect 14-0 record at Bank of America Arena, in front of a school-record and Pac-10 leading 4,981 fans per game. The women also set a single-game attendance record when 8,408 fans were on hand to see Washington down UCLA 111-77.

Among the national leaders in home attendance on an annual basis, the Huskies finished the season ranked 18th in the nation in home attendance (4,981), posting the sixth best increase in average fans from the previous year.

Washington remained atop the Pac-10 Conference in 2002, finishing in a tie for second place with the same 12-6 record as the previous year. The Huskies were invited to the WNIT and advanced to the third round, hosting three games in Bank of America Arena and knocking off North Texas and USC along the way.

In 2001 Daugherty engineered one of the greatest turnarounds in the country for a women's basketball squad, from one season to the next. She guided Washington to its first Pac-10 Conference title since 1990, and after a two-year absence, a berth in the NCAA Tournament.

From there, the Huskies made a dramatic run through the Big Dance, knocking off Old Dominion, Florida and Oklahoma en route to the Elite Eight of the NCAA Tournament. Daugherty guided the Huskies to their first 20-win season since 1995 as the team led the Pac-10 in rebounding, broke several school and conference records and collected all-league, all-academic and all-America honors throughout the year.

The team's turnaround from ninth place the previous year to the Pac-10 championship in 2001 was the greatest in conference history. Picked to finish sixth and seventh in the Pac-10 in preseason polls, the Huskies put together a season that surprised everyone but themselves.

Daugherty's brand of basketball - with explosive offense, dive-on-the-floor defense and exceptional team chemistry - brought Husky fans out in droves as Washington enjoyed the second-greatest increase in home attendance from one season to the next.

Daugherty, who has more than a decade of head coaching experience, enters the 2003-04 season with a 14-year career record of 245-160. Her first two victories of the 2002 season made her the second-winningest coach at Washington.

Washington's success on the court can be directly attributed to its team chemistry away from the basketball court. Daugherty, whose husband, Mike, is on her staff, is a firm believer in the "Husky Family" and creating a home away from home for her players and staff. The Daugherty twins, nine-year old Doc and Breanne, have grown up with Husky basketball. They are regulars on the travel squad and are often credited with an assist in recruiting.

Daugherty's family theme continues with academics and community service. Each quarter the women's basketball team is among the leaders in Washington's 23-sport athletic department when it comes to academic performance.

Community service is no different as the Huskies, both players and staff, are among the most visible in the Seattle community, working at area youth centers, homeless shelters, the Salvation Army and Children's Hospital. Daugherty has been the driving force behind the Husky Community Youth Summer Basketball Clinics, now in the fourth year, conducting 10 different clinics for young girls throughout the Seattle area.

In that same vein, Daugherty has placed a high priority on keeping the top local high school talent from around the region at home in the northwest. She has established a pattern over the last six years that began with Megan Franza, her first Husky recruit, back in 1997. Franza, Washington's Gatorade Player of the Year in '97, went on to become one of Washington's most prolific scorers and three-point shooters, along with earning national academic all-America honors. The same can be said of the 2002 and 2003 classes, where five of the six incoming freshmen are from the greater Seattle area.

Daugherty, 47, was named head coach at Washington May 10, 1996, replacing 11-year coach Chris Gobrecht, who had resigned to accept the head job at Florida State. She became the seventh head coach in UW women's basketball history.

In Daugherty's first season, the Huskies posted a record of 17-11, winning seven of their last 10 games and finishing in a tie for fourth place in the Pac-10. She capped her inaugural year with an invitation to the NCAA Tournament, guiding the Huskies back after a one-year absence.

Her second season saw the Huskies reach 18 victories for the first time since the 1994-95 season. They logged a 9-0 non-conference record, the first time a Washington team went undefeated in non-league play. Her team, which included five freshmen, jumped out to a 10-0 record and, after not appearing in the preseason rankings, soared as high as No. 7 with victories over such formidable competition as No. 26 Kansas, No. 18 Iowa, No. 5 Vanderbilt and No. 20 North Carolina State.

The 1999 season saw Washington open with a victory at perennial power Iowa and face top-ranked Connecticut on its home court. The Huskies finished the regular season by winning three straight, including an upset of No. 12 UCLA in the final game in Hec Edmundson Pavilion before it was shutdown for a year-long remodel. Washington went on to participate in the WNIT, hosting Northwest neighbor Portland in the first round and advancing to the second round at New Mexico.

Faced with a spate of injuries to its front line, a young squad with no seniors and an off-campus home court, Washington suffered through an 8-22 campaign in 2000. The season was not without its highlights though, the biggest coming on Jan. 27 when the Huskies upset No. 24 Stanford and captured the 500th win for the women's basketball program. It was the second victory in a row over Stanford and career win No. 180 for Daugherty.

Washington was led by the scoring duo of Loree Payne (17.4 ppg) and Megan Franza (17.2 ppg), who combined to form the highest scoring duo from the same school in Pac-10 history. Franza was named to the All-Pac-10 First Team, continuing a tradition which has seen Washington have a player on the first team every year but two since the league began play in the 1986-87 season. Payne finished the year as one of the most prolific freshman players in UW history, breaking eight freshman records, highlighted by her scoring mark of 521 points.

Prior to her arrival at Washington, Daugherty was the head coach at Boise State for seven years, from 1989-96. During that period, she compiled a 123-74 overall record and a 73-31 record in the Big Sky Conference.

Under Daugherty's guidance, the Boise State program achieved a number of firsts — a first NCAA tournament bid, a national ranking, and a regular season conference title. In 1992, the Broncos won the Big Sky regular season championship, and in 1994 they shared the conference crown with Montana and earned an at-large bid to the NCAA tournament. At the conclusion of the 1993-94 season, Daugherty was named Big Sky Co-Coach of the Year.

Prior to her arrival, Boise State qualified for the Big Sky Tournament twice, and Daugherty continued that trend, making the four-team tournament in six of seven seasons. During the 1993-94 season, the Broncos were ranked in the Associated Press and USA Today top 25 polls from January through the end of the season, climbing as high as 17th in mid-February.

The Broncos enjoyed tremendous success off the playing court under Daugherty. The program averaged 500 fans per game the year before Daugherty took over as head coach, and in her first season, average home attendance soared to more than 2,000, a level that had been consistent throughout her tenure. In each of her seven seasons, Boise State ranked among the nation's top 30 in home attendance.

The program reached an all-time high in 1993-94 with an average of 4,003 per game. During her tenure, more than 30 student-athletes were named to the Big Sky Conference all-academic team. Two of Daugherty's players - Lidiya Varbanova (1993 and '94) and Michelle Schultz (1995) - earned honorable mention All-America honors.

Prior to her appointment at Boise State, Daugherty served as an assistant coach to Tara Vanderveer at Stanford University from 1985 to 1989. During her tenure, she helped guide the Cardinal from a sub-.500 record in 1985-86 to one of its finest seasons in school history when it finished the 1989 campaign with a record of 28-3, and undefeated Pac-10 season and a trip to the NCAA Midwest Regional final.

She also had a two-year stint on the Kent State staff as an assistant coach from 1983 to 1985.

Just prior to the start of the 2001 season, Daugherty was honored for her talent as a collegiate athlete when she is inducted into the Ohio State University Athletic Hall of Fame. She was a standout basketball player for the Buckeyes from 1974-78.

A 1978 OSU graduate, Daugherty helped the Buckeyes to the Big Ten championships in 1977 and 1978. She stills stands at No. 16 on Ohio State's career scoring chart with 1,137 points and ranks fourth in career rebounds with 829. She owns the single game school record for blocked shots, with 12 against Michigan State in 1976. At the conclusion of her senior season, she earned first team all-America honors and was a Wade Trophy finalist the first year the award was presented.

Following graduation, Daugherty played and coached on several international teams, including a stint as a player and head coach for the Union Sportive Vierzon Club based in France.

Daugherty is a member of the Women's Basketball Coaches' Association and has served on its Board of Directors. Each year she serves as a clinician for the NCAA YES Clinic at the Final Four. Daugherty has been active in USA Basketball and was an assistant coach for the West Team at the 1995 Olympic Sports Festival where former Husky Jamie Redd was a member of the team.

More recently, she has seen former Husky Loree Payne become a member of the gold-medal-winning Jones Cup Team in 2000 and earn a tryout for the World University Games Team in 2001 along with teammate Andrea Lalum. Husky point guard Giuliana Mendiola was invited to tryout for the Junior National Team, in 2001, before a 2003 invitation to the National Team Trials.

Daugherty is a native of Columbus, Ohio. She is the daughter of Naomi and Jim Brewer and has two brothers and one sister. She and her husband, Mike, are the parents of nine-year-old twins. An active and athletic person, Daugherty along with assistant coach Sunny Smallwood, completed the 200-mile Seattle to Portland Bike Ride in July, 2002.

ASSISTANT COACH SUNNY SMALLWOOD

- Recruiting Coordinator
- Defensive Coordinator
- 11th year at Washington
- Eighth year with coach June Daugherty

Think of Washington women's basketball and you must think of Sunny Smallwood, who begins her 11th year in the Husky program. In her eighth season on June Daugherty's staff, she has played an integral part in Washington's fixture as a national power on the women's basketball map.

During her 10-year tenure, Smallwood has helped direct the Huskies to six NCAA Tournament appearances, including the regional semi-finals in 1995 and the Elite Eight in 2001. In nine of her 10 years, the Huskies finished in the top five of the Pac-10 Conference, with a runner-up mark in 1995 and a share of the conference title in 2001.

A veteran among Pac-10 Conference assistant coaches, Smallwood was on former Husky coach Chris Gobrecht's staff from 1993-96 and was hired back by Daugherty as the defensive and recruiting coordinator.

Her first season on Gobrecht's staff saw the Huskies finish with a record of 21-8 and an appearance in the NCAA second round. The following year, they posted a 25-9 mark after advancing to the regional semi-final. Over the last seven years, under Daugherty, the Huskies have gone to postseason play six times, culminating in the 2001 Elite Eight game. In all, Smallwood has seen Washington amass a record of 184-116 under her guidance.

Several of her players have earned regional all-America honors during their careers, along with numerous Pac-10 accolades for both basketball and academics. A Husky player has been on the Pac-10 First Team every year but one during her tenure.

In addition to her instruction on the court, Smallwood's reputation is built on her success as Washington's recruiting coordinator. Highly respected around the state and the nation as one of the top women's basketball recruiters, she is a tireless worker, known for her sincerity, in selling the program to high school players and their families.

Smallwood's networking efforts have resulted in a virtual Who's Who of Washington basketball. Names like Jamie Redd and Amber Hall, UW's all-time leading scorer and rebounder, respectively, dot the list. Megan Franza, LeAnn Sheets, Loree Payne, Andrea Lalum and Giuliana Mendiola are among those who have earned Pac-10 accolades.

Keeping the Northwest-area players at home has become a benchmark of the Washington program with nearly all incoming players over the last seven seasons from the region. The 2004 freshmen class includes Dominique Banks and Maggie O'Hara, the players of the year from California and Idaho, respectively, in addition to standouts Cameo Hicks (California) and Breanne Watson (British Columbia).

Under Smallwood's guidance the Washington recruiting base has reached an international level as well, luring such standouts as Laure Savasta from France and Amber Hall from Canada, both of whom have gone on to play on their country's national teams, to the Seattle campus.

Smallwood's first foray into collegiate coaching was at the Division I level, when she joined the Washington State staff as an assistant coach in 1990. Her first year saw the Cougars earn their first-ever bid to the NCAA Tournament when they finished the regular season with a record of 18-10.

At WSU, Smallwood worked with head coach Harold Rhodes and in addition to her on-court duties, played a major role in every aspect of running the Division I program, including scheduling, team travel and budget, while also sharing recruiting responsibilities. She was Director of WSU Summer Camps as well.

She joined WSU's staff after seven years as the head coach of the Boise (Idaho) High girls' basketball team. During her tenure, Boise had three 16-win seasons and enjoyed state tournament appearances in 1986 and 1989. While at Boise High, Smallwood also served as head volleyball coach for one season, assistant volleyball coach for three years and was also an assistant track coach.

Smallwood played Division I college basketball at Boise State and was the starting point guard and off-guard for the Bronco's from 1979-83. She was honored as Mountain West Conference Player of the Week on three separate occasions while playing for coach Connie Thorngren.

Smallwood was a consistent performer in the classroom as well, compiling a 3.49 cumulative grade point average during college. She was a two-time Mountain West All-Academic first-team selection. Smallwood graduated in 1983 with a degree in elementary education.

Born in Deadwood, South Dakota, Smallwood attended high school in Price, Utah, where she was an all-around star at Carbon High, earning 16 letters and graduating with a 3.94 GPA.

Smallwood, who constantly preaches the family-atmosphere of Husky basketball, comes from a close-knit family, all of whom are ardent Husky basketball fans. She has two brothers, Kelly and Ray, and a sister, Tana. Her mother, Theda Smallwood, is a frequent fan at Husky games home and away, traveling from Boise. Smallwood's father passed away in 1999.

In addition to her coordinator duties at Washington, Smallwood, is a veteran assistant coach with responsibilities in nearly every aspect of the Washington program. She is active in the Seattle community as a public speaker, involved with several mentor groups and coordinates the chapel and non-denominational team bible study. An avid outdoorswoman, Smallwood loves to workout and enjoys running, rollerblading, hiking and swimming. She is a regular participant in the UW Alumni Golf Tour and in July, 2002 completed the 200-mile Seattle to Portland Bike Ride along with June Daugherty.

ASSISTANT COACH MIKE DAUGHERTY

- Offensive Coordinator
- Player Development
- Eighth year at Washington

A great deal of Washington's increasingly visible reputation as an explosive offensive team can be traced to assistant coach Mike Daugherty who enters his eighth year at Washington. Daugherty, who is married to Husky head coach June Daugherty, is in charge of coordinating the team offense, perimeter player development and scheduling.

Daugherty, in his 15th season as a Division I coach, was an assistant to June at Boise State from 1989-96.

Washington's offense is explosive indeed. After second-place rankings for the previous two years, the Huskies led the Pac-10 in scoring average with 75.6 points per game in 2003. UW also led the Pac-10 in three-point shooting percentage (.364) and three-pointers made, as well as ranking third in the nation in three-pointers per game (8.2). The Huskies also shattered the previous school record with 246 three-pointers made last season, topping the previous 2001 mark of 237. They matched their Pac-10 single-game record with 16 three-point field goals vs. St. Bonaventure, Nov. 29.

Daugherty-product Loree Payne wrapped up her Husky career in 2003, breaking former teammate Megan Franza's career records for three-pointers made and three-pointers attempted. Payne and Franza rank two and three, respectively, on the Pac-10 career lists for three-pointers made (245 and 211) and three-pointers attempted (732 and 708). Payne also ranks No. 16 on the Pac-10 all-time scoring list (1,675 pts.), while Franza, one of the first recruits in the Daugherty era, ranks No. 20 on the same list with 1,612 career points.

In addition, Washington finished the 2001 season ranked No. 7 in the country in three point field goals made per game.

A Daugherty coaching philosophy has always been that to be the best you must play the best. Over the last six years, he has set the Huskies in non-conference match-ups against perennial powers Connecticut, Vanderbilt, North Carolina State, Kansas, Iowa State, Nebraska and Texas Tech among others. Year in and year out, Washington faces top competition from around the country, both at home and on the road.

Daugherty is a 1977 graduate of Ohio State University where he was a starter on the basketball team from 1975 through 1977. He posted a career scoring average of 7.4 points and 3.5 rebounds per game while shooting 42 percent from the field. He dished out 120 assists while making 33 starts in 53 career games for the Buckeyes.

He was Ohio State's defensive player of the year in 1976. His best collegiate game was an 18-point performance in Ohio State's disheartening 66-64 loss to eventual national champion and undefeated Indiana.

Before he transferred to Ohio State, Daugherty played the 1973-74 season at Georgia Tech. He originally went to Georgia Tech as a combination guard in basketball and quarterback in football.

Following graduation, Daugherty continued as a player in the South American Professional Leagues where his team from Sirio Brazil won the world championship at the Jones Cup in 1979. In his best season, he averaged 24 points per game for Hindu Club of Argentina.

Daugherty, an avid fly fisherman, graduated with a bachelor's degree in marketing from Ohio State. He and June are the parents of nine-year-old twins. Daugherty's father, Harold, was a quarterback on the 1944 and '45 Ohio State teams.

- First Year at Washington

Kellie Lewis-Jay enters her first year as an assistant coach at the University of Washington, but she is no stranger to the Daugherty system of basketball. Lewis-Jay played two years under June and Mike Daugherty at Boise State University.

Lewis-Jay duties include scouting, recruiting, on-floor coaching and working as the coordinator of the Huskies summer camps and clinics.

This is the first collegiate coaching position for Lewis-Jay, who comes to Seattle from the high school and club coaching ranks. After graduating from Boise State in December of 1998 with a bachelor of science in social science and public affairs, she took on the girls basketball head coaching duties at Bishop Kelly High School in Boise, Idaho.

Lewis-Jay led Bishop Kelly to a five-year record of 87-33, including a runner-up showing at the 2002 state championships. She led the prep varsity team to a district championship title in 2003, after guiding the junior varsity team to district crowns in 1999 and 2000. Lewis-Jay was also named the District 3 Junior Varsity Coach of the Year in 2000.

Aside from her prep coaching duties, Lewis-Jay established the Idaho Elite in 1999, a competitive summer basketball team based in Boise. Members of her Idaho Elite team included 25 all-state athletes, as well as 12 NCAA Div. I signees. Among those standout players was Husky freshman Maggie O'Hara, who played under Lewis-Jay with the Idaho Elite for one year. With O'Hara a key player, Lewis-Jay's team won the 2002 Midsummer Nights Madness Tournament championship title in Seattle.

Lewis-Jay played her first two years of collegiate basketball for the Daughertys, which included the last two of June's tenure with the Broncos (1994-95, 1995-96).

At BSU, Lewis-Jay was a four-year letterwinner and a two-time team captain. Her list of collegiate accolades included a pair of Big West All-Conference selections in 1997 and 1998, as well as Boise State team MVP honors those same seasons. During her senior campaign, Lewis-Jay was named the MVP of the Boise State Tournament, in addition to making the Big West Conference All-Tournament team and garnering Big West Athlete of the Week honors in 1998. She was also honored as the 1998 recipient of the National Arthur Ashe Scholar Athlete Award.

With academics definitely being a strong suite for Lewis-Jay, she was a four-time selection to conference academic teams, including 1995 and 1996 selections to the Big Sky team and 1997 and 1998 nods to the Big West team.

Lewis-Jay's name still appears among many single-season and career top-10 lists in Bronco history. She holds the BSU career record for free-throw percentage (.807, 142-176), and ranks second in most three-point shots made (163) and three-pointers attempted (484). She also ranks sixth all-time in three-point shooting percentage (.336).

Lewis-Jay held the Boise State school record for three-point field goals made in a single-season with 76 (1996-97), until it was broken by Abby Vaughan (81) last season. Her 61 treys in 1997-98 rank fifth all-time. She ranks second and fourth on the Bronco single-season list for three-pointers attempted with 205 in 1996-97 and 189 in 1997-98. Her .371 three-point shooting percentage in 1996-97 remains the seventh-best on the BSU single season list in that category.

Lewis-Jay also shares the single-game school record for three-pointers with seven.

Lewis-Jay was an all-around contributor on the basketball court for the Broncos, leading the team in six different categories during her junior season: scoring average (12.2), field goals made (107), three-pointers made (76), free-throw percentage (.765), assists (69) and steals (48).

She also was the team leader in three-pointers made in 1998 (61) and 1995 (20), in three-point field goal percentage in 1995 (.328), in free-throw percentage in 1998 (.830), and assists in 1998 (76).

Lewis-Jay prepped at Placer High School in Auburn, Calif., where she graduated in 1994 as school valedictorian. She led her high school team to four Sierra Foothill League Championships. Lewis-Jay earned league MVP honors during her senior campaign, and was also a three-time all-conference selection. She was a three-year team captain and two-time Placer High MVP.
