THE PACIFIC-10 CONFERENCE

Entering the 2004-05 season, the Pacific-10 Conference continues to uphold its tradition as the "Conference of Champions." Pac-10 members have claimed an incredible 84 NCAA team titles over the past nine seasons, an average of more than eight championships per academic year.

Even more impressive is the breadth of the Pac-10's success, as those 84 team titles over the past nine seasons have come in 21 different men's and women's sports. The Pac-10 has now led the nation in NCAA Championships 39 of the last 44 years and finished second five times.

Spanning nearly a century of athletics achievement, the Pac-10 has captured 336 NCAA titles (246 men's, 90 women's), outdistancing the runner-up Big Ten's 197 titles.

The Conference's reputation is further proven in the annual United States Sports Academy Directors' Cup competition, the prestigious award that honors the best overall collegiate athletics programs in the country. STANFORD continued its remarkable run in the 2003-04 season, winning its 10th consecutive USSA Directors' Cup. In the 2003-04 competition, four of the top 10 and seven of the top 20 Division I programs were Pac-10 members: No. 1 Stanford, No. 3 UCLA, No. 8 Washington, No. 9 California, No. 15 Arizona, No. 16 Arizona State, and No. 20 USC.

The Pac-10 earned 11 NCAA titles in 2003-04, more than double any other conference. The Pac-10 total of 11 was followed most closely by the Southeastern Conference, which earned five NCAA crowns, and the Big Ten, which had four. And it should be noted that the Pac-10's total does not include USC's title in football or California's in rugby, as they are not counted as NCAA titles. The 11 titles for the Pac-10 are the most for the conference since 1997-98. The Pac-10 had the most NCAA titles of any conference in women's sports with eight, and tied with the SEC and Big Ten for most in men's sports with three. NCAA team champions from the Pac-10 in 2003-04 came from: UCLA (women's gymnastics, women's golf, softball, women's track and field), Stanford (men's and women's cross country and women's tennis), USC (women's volleyball and men's and women's water polo) and California (men's golf). The Pac-10 also had runners-up in six NCAA Championship events: men's golf (UCLA), men's and women's tennis (UCLA), men's swimming and diving (Stanford), men's water polo (Stanford) and softball (California). Overall, the conference had 21 teams finish in the top three at NCAA Championship events.

Individually, the Conference has produced an impressive number of NCAA men's individual champions as well, claiming 1079 NCAA individual crowns.

On the women's side, the story is much the same. Since the NCAA began conducting women's championships

23 years ago, Pac-10 members have claimed at least four national titles in a single season on 15 occasions. Overall, the Pac-10 has captured 90 NCAA women's crowns, easily outdistancing the Southeastern Conference, which is second with 60. Pac-10 members have dominated a number of sports, winning 17 softball titles, 15 tennis crowns, nine of the last 14 volleyball titles, 11 of the last 15 trophies in golf and eight of the last 16 in swimming and diving.

Pac-10 women athletes shine individually as well, capturing an unmatched 428 NCAA individual titles, an average of nearly 19 champions per season.

The roots of the Pacific-10 Conference go back 89 years to December 15, 1915, when the Pacific Coast Conference (PCC) was founded at the Oregon Hotel in Portland, Ore. Original membership consisted of the University of California at Berkeley, the University of Washington, the University of Oregon, and Oregon State College (now Oregon State University), all still charter members of the Conference.

Pacific Coast Conference play began in 1916. One year later, Washington State College (now Washington State University), was accepted into the Conference, and Stanford University joined in 1918.

In 1922, the PCC expanded to eight teams with the admission of the University of Southern California and the University of Idaho. Montana joined the Conference in 1924, and in 1928, the PCC grew to 10 members with the addition of UCLA.

The Pacific Coast Conference competed as a 10-team league until 1950, with the exception of 1943-45, when World War II curtailed intercollegiate athletic competition to a minimum. In 1950, Montana resigned from the Conference and joined the Mountain States Conference. The PCC continued as a nine-team Conference through 1958.

In 1959, the PCC was dissolved and a new Conference was formed – the Athletic Association of Western Universities. Original AAWU membership consisted of California, Stanford, Southern California, UCLA, and Washington. Washington State became a member in 1962, while Oregon and Oregon State joined in 1964. In 1968, the name Pacific-8 Conference was adopted.

Ten years later, on July 1, 1978, the University of Arizona and Arizona State University were admitted and the Pacific-10 Conference became a reality. In 1986-87, the league expanded to include 10 women's sports.

Currently, the Pac-10 sponsors 11 men's sports and 11 women's sports. Additionally, the Conference is a member of the Mountain Pacific Sports Federation (MPSF) in four other men's sports and two other women's sports.
