Consistent Scoring Key to Husky Success

Last season the Washington gymnastics team posted five of the top 10 scores in the program's history, including a school record of 197.600 in a three-way home meet. Along the way the Huskies posted a 21-11 record and just missed a trip to the NCAA Championships after finishing third at the NCAA regional.

This year's team hopes to build upon that success, but with a twist.

"We want to be more consistent," says head coach Bob Levesque. "If you look at our scores, we were very up and down. We were all over the map."

The Huskies posted three scores over 197.000 at home but had problems bettering a mark of better than 195.000 on the road.

"We hit our routines at home and did not on the road," Levesque says. "This year we would like to start out around 195 and stay there and then consistently go up during the season."

Washington will have nine returning letterwinners and five freshmen to accomplish that goal. Gone from last year's team is Stacy Wong, who is the school record holder in the all-around (39.725) and beam (9.975) and letterwinners Courtney Canavan, Jenny Ehlers, Gharde Geldenhuys and Tanya Powers.

"We are going to be thin, so we're going to have to approach some meets with a Plan A and others with a Plan B," Levesque says. "It is going to be important to stay healthy."

The Huskies already suffered one setback this season when off-season wrist surgery sidelined senior Amy Metcalf for the start of the season. She has appeared in all but one meet during her three-year career. Metcalf was expected to compete on floor, bars and beam but likely be limited to beam at the start of the campaign and possibly floor later in the year.

Four gymnasts figure to handle the bulk of the routines for the Huskies.

Senior Emily Pritchard won six event titles in 2003 despite being sidelined for two meets due to kidney stones. Pritchard owns Washington's third best all-around score (39.675) and set career marks on bars (9.975) and floor (9.925) as a junior.

"Competing with kidney stones was remarkable," Levesque says. "Emily has demonstrated a lot of toughness during her career and we know we can count on her this year. I think she could be our top all-arounder this season."

Junior Tacia LaBatte made a strong comeback in 2003 after suffering a foot injury during her sophomore campaign. LaBatte posted four career bests scores at Utah against her former teammates including a 39.350 in the all-around.

Emily Pritchard

"I think Tacia is going to surprise a lot of people this year," Levesque says. "I think she could be a sleeper on the national scene. She's ready to come into her own this year and get some big scores. Her beam routine is getting much more consistent and she's upgraded her level of difficulty to do a double-back dismount. Her vaults are improved and her floor routine is something."

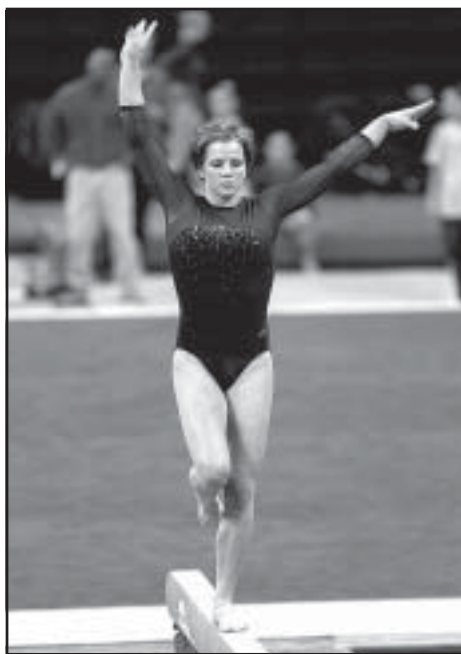

"Emily and Tacia will really push each other and that is going to help us tremendously."

Junior Carly Dockendorf gives Washington a third solid all-arounder. All she did last year was become the first Husky gymnast to record three perfect 10s in a single season. She did it twice on floor and won the Pac-10 title on bars with a perfect routine. Dockendorf won the NCAA Regional in both bars and floor.

Dockendorf led the team in 2003 with 12 event titles including five victories on floor. An exceptional athlete, she is also a pole vaulter for the Husky track team.

"Carly's attitude is awesome," Levesque says. "She's going to have another great year for us. She is such a great athlete there really isn't anything she can not accomplish. She can win

Carly Dockendorf

Tacia LaBatte

any meet on bars and floor and has a lot of skill on the beam."

Sophomore Kelly McDonald gives the Huskies a fourth all-around threat. She scored a 39.675 in the Huskies' final home meet of 2003 that stands as the third-best mark in school history. McDonald won seven event titles during the season and had scores of at least 9.950 on every event except for beam where she still managed a pair of 9.9s.

A troublesome heel injury may handicap McDonald's ability to compete on floor in the early portion of the season.

"She really contributed a lot for us last year and with a year behind her I think Kelly can add even more to our team," Levesque says. "I think she is capable of hitting more of her routines on a consistent basis. That would be a big plus for us."

Junior Kim Lewis was a regular on bars and floor for Washington last season, scoring career bests of 9.875 on both events. She figures into the Husky lineup again this season and may play a more prominent role on beam.

"Kim does not have all of the great physical attributes but she more than makes up for it in her work ethic," Levesque says. "She sets a great example to our younger gymnasts to what you can accomplish if you come to the gym everyday ready to work."

Senior Molly Seaman could be Washington's replacement to Wong as an anchor on beam. She missed the second half of the 2003 season due to a knee injury but is expected to be back in the lineup this year for beam and floor.

Sophomores Christina Pelaez and Bijoya Das could also factor into the lineup. Pelaez was a regular on floor last year and Das will push for a spot on the beam lineup. Das was limited last season to a single-meet appearance due to an elbow injury.

Among the five freshmen, Chelsea Bakken has the greatest chance to contribute and she could even see time as an all-arounder.

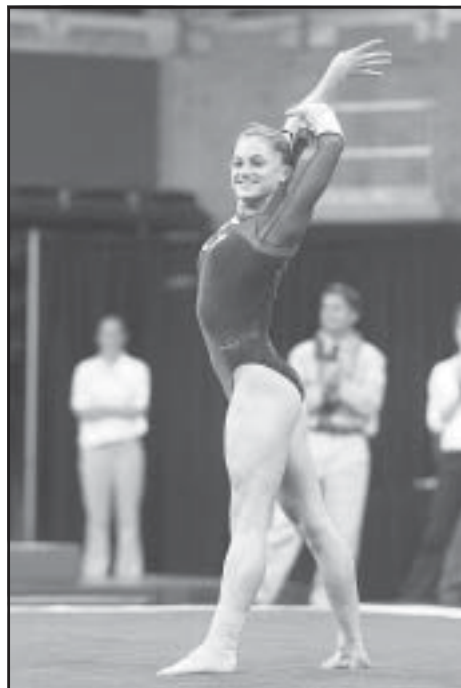

"I noticed in our intrasquad meet that she really turns it on for competition or when she has to perform in front of people," Levesque says. "I really like that in her character. Floor will be her best event, but she could certainly factor into our lineup in any of the other positions."

A leg injury may force Nicole Waiss, an excellent vaulter, to redshirt the season while Tori Quandt could help the Huskies on vault and floor. Darcee Schiller is accomplished in all four events while Erika Knapp figures into the mix on floor and beam.

"I think we'll be strong on floor and vault but maybe down a little bit on bars this year," says Levesque while evaluating the overall talents of his team. "The skills we are doing and the routines mix very well. I think we'll start out the season better than we did a year ago and then see if we can accomplish our goal of staying consistent with our scoring and gradually raising our level."

Levesque is counting on the experience factor of his veterans to make up for the fact the team is thin in some areas.

"It is an intangible that you cannot teach," he says. "Experience makes them hungry and makes them understand what is going on, how to get there and how to pull everyone else along at the same time.

"They know it is a very thin line between being really successful and really hurting because you didn't meet your goals," he says. "I remind them of that everyday."

It is a consistent message for a team striving for consistency.

Bob Levesque Head Coach

Under the guidance of Husky head coach Bob Levesque, the Washington gymnastics program has become one of the most successful in the nation. NCAA appearances, All-Americans, NCAA competitors and top-20 finishes have become the norm under Levesque's tenure.

A highly-respected club coach in Oregon, Levesque accepted the challenge of heading up a college program in 1991. Over the past 13 seasons he has led the Huskies to NCAA Regional appearances every season while compiling a career record of 155-124-1.

Levesque has built the Husky program around local talent and national elite-level gymnasts. With the $40 million renovation of Bank of America Arena at Hec Edmundson Pavilion, he now has a new practice facility and top-flight competition setting to further Washington's program.

The last seven years the Husky program has truly emerged on the national level. His teams have posted a combined 101-74-1 record, been nationally ranked, recorded victories against perennial West Coast powers UCLA and Oregon State, tied Utah, ranked in the top 20 in attendance and hosted a pair of NCAA Regional championships.

Levesque's efforts to revitalize the Husky gymnastics program have not gone unnoticed. In 1998 he became the first coach in the history of the Washington gymnastics program to lead the team to back-to-back NCAA Championship appearances. It was not Levesque's only repeat during the season. He was also honored as the Pac-10 and West Region coach of the year for the second consecutive season.

In 1998, Levesque guided the team to a 17-7 record and the program's first NCAA West Regional Championship. The Huskies finished the season ranked seventh in the nation and finished seventh at the NCAA Championships. Two Huskies, senior Klara Kudilková and junior Tiffany Simpson, earned All-America honors at the NAAs. The 1998 NCAA appearance was the third by the team over a five-year stretch. Prior to that it had been seven years (1987) since the Huskies had appeared at the national championships.

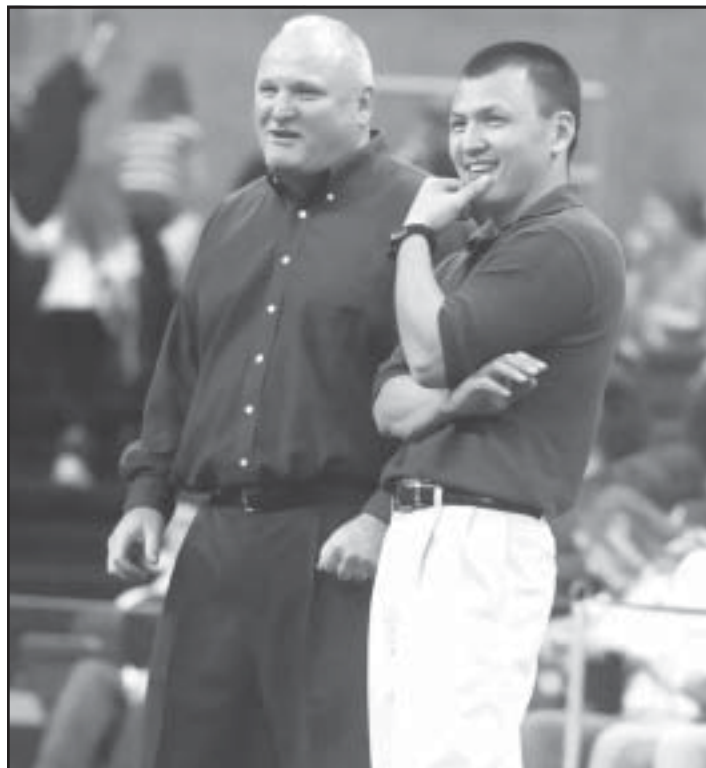

A year earlier, Levesque took Washington to the NCAA Championships where the team placed eighth and four Husky gymnasts earned All-American honors in seven different categories. During the regular season the Huskies smashed their record book. Washington bettered its previous all-time score a total of 12 times during the year. It was appropriate that Levesque was recognized for his team's outstanding performances.

In nine of the 13 years he has been at Washington, Levesque has seen at least one of his gymnasts compete in the individual events at the NCAA Championships. He has a UW gymnast earn first-team All-America honors nine times.

Prior to taking the head coaching position at the UW, Levesque was the owner and director of the American Gymnastics Training Center in Eugene, Ore. He was named the Husky gymnastics coach on July 10, 1990.

Levesque, 54, a 1972 graduate of Fresno State University, had been associated with the American Gymnastics Training Center since 1985. In addition to coaching gymnasts from level eight through elite, he also handled event and meet scheduling and the hiring and training of staff members along with traveling with his athletes to national and international competitions.

Several Levesque-trained athletes have competed on the national and international level. Six of those were Olympians, including Tracee Talavera and Julianne McNamara from the United States. The others were Karen Kelsall (Canada, 1976 & 1980); Nancy Goldsmith (Israel, 1984); Tarella

Javen (Finland, 1980) and Tatiana Fegieredo (Brazil, 1984).

He also coached Tanya Chaplin (formerly Tanya Service), currently the head coach at Oregon State, and Leslie Pyfer, two gymnasts who competed in the world championships for the United States. Five other gymnasts tutored by Levesque were members of national teams, including former UW national champion Yumi Mordre. More than 20 athletes groomed by Levesque have competed on the Division I college level.

Prior to joining the American Gymnastics Training Center, Levesque was a staff member at the National Academy of Artistic Gymnasts in Eugene from 1977 until 1985 where he worked with Class I and elite gymnasts. He began his coaching career at the Fresno Gymnastics Club in 1972 and was on the staff until leaving for Oregon in 1977.

Levesque has also been a guest lecturer and teacher at numerous clinics on the West Coast and in the Northwest. He has done work with the United States Gymnastics Federation and was elected in 1989 as the Program Chairman of the Regional Elite Committee, which represented the six-state Western Region. As chairman of that group, he helped organize regional workshops and disseminate information to the states in his region along with attending national meetings.

He currently serves on the women's program committee and is a former vice president of the National Academy of Collegiate Gymnastics Coaches for Women.

Levesque and his wife, Kathy, reside in Bothell. He is an avid golfer who recorded his first hole-in-one during the summer of 1998.

Heidi Coleman Assistant Coach

Heidi Coleman is in her second season as an assistant coach at Washington. Prior to joining the Husky staff, she worked as the artistic director and assistant head coach for the Abbotsford Twisters Gymnastics Club in British Columbia. She oversaw the program's balance beam, vault, artistic preparation and choreography for the club.

Before working with the Abbotsford Twisters, Coleman was the competitive coach for the Surrey Gymnastics Society in British Columbia from 1998-1999. She was the competitive coach at Omega Gymnastics from 1996-1997, oversaw the Flicka Gymnastics Club from 1988 to 1992 and coached at Sport Seneca from 1984-1986.

In 2002 Coleman and her partner coach were named the High Performance Coaches of the Year for Canadian Gymnastics. The award is presented to the coaches of the highest achieving international athlete that year. She was honored for the accomplishments for Kate Richardson, a Canadian Olympian and the 2002 Commonwealth all-around and balance beam champion. Richardson is a sophomore at UCLA this year.

Coleman was named a British Columbia Team Coach to the Canadian National Championships in 1991, 1992, 2001 and 2002. She was named a British Columbia Team Coach to the Western Canadian Championships in 1990, 1991, 1992 and 2000, 2001 and 2002.

Coleman is qualified to instruct Level 1, 2 and 3 gymnastics in Canada and is currently completing her Level 4 coaching certification, which is the highest level achievable.

As an undergraduate student at Seneca College, she was named the school's student of the year in 1986. She completed her bachelor of physical education from the University of British Columbia in 1992.

Frank Lee Assistant Coach

One of the most highly respected club-level gymnastics coaches on the West Coast, Frank Lee is in his fifth season as an assistant coach for the Washington gymnastics team. Lee is a familiar figure to the University and Seattle area gymnastics communities.

In addition to assisting the Husky program, Lee is the owner and head coach of the Cascade Elite Gymnastics Club in Montlake Terrace. He has operated the highly successful club since he graduated from Washington in 1989. Lee earned his undergraduate degree in zoology.

Since 1990, Cascade Elite Gymnastics has sent at least one gymnast to the Level 10 Nationals. Five different athletes have been members of U.S. National Teams. The club has also produced numerous state and regional champions.

In 2000, he coached current Husky sophomore Gharde Geldenhuys at the Summer Olympic Games in Sydney. Geldenhuys represented her home nation of Namibia at the Games.

Lee has had a pupil on the Elite National Team every year since 1996. He has sent a competitor to the U.S. Championships each of the past two years and coached one gymnast at the World Team Trials and World Champions last summer.

While attending the University of Washington, he was a member of the Husky men's gymnastics club team. Born in Seoul, South Korea, Lee grew up in Seattle and attended Cascade High School. Lee and his wife, Uyen, reside in Poulsbo with their daughter Jasmine.
