We are also proud of the reputation of the Nordstrom complex and of our staff and know that, with the partnership of the Seattle Tennis Club, Seattle will again prove to be an exceptional host for this prestigious event.

As a member of the Seattle Sports Commission, the UW assists, whenever possible, in bringing high-quality spectator events to the Seattle area. The level of tennis competition seen during the National Team Indoors weekend certainly fulfills that mission, and we know that spectators and participants alike will be thrilled by the excitement sure to come during the course of this event.

So, welcome – whether your experience is on the courts or in the stands, we trust your time here will be memorable. Should you have any comments or questions, please let us know so that we can improve for future hosting opportunities.

Enjoy!

Scott Woodward
Director of Athletics
University of Washington

Dear players, coaches, officials and fans,

The Seattle Tennis Club is very pleased to once again assist the University of Washington in hosting the 2011 ITA National Men's Team Indoor Championship.

Those of you who are tennis historians may be interested to know that the Seattle Tennis Club played a key role in hosting the NCAA tennis championships more than 50 years ago. Three years removed from co-hosting the 2008 ITA National Men's Team Indoor Championship, the STC has been host to many great Northwest tournaments over its long existence, including the Washington State Open (now in its second century), the National Senior Indoor Championships, as well as many Satellite events.

As a former college tennis player myself and son of a college coach, I feel especially proud to take part in this year's event, due to the high caliber of play exhibited at the collegiate level, which makes this one of the best tennis events ever in the Northwest.

We look forward to this event returning to Seattle in the future, and hosting more of the event's festivities.

On behalf of the members of the Seattle Tennis Club and its Board of Trustees, welcome to Seattle and good luck to all the teams who have qualified for this prestigious event.

Most Sincerely,

Doug Verdieck
Director of Tennis
Seattle Tennis Club

The ITA Board of Directors are comprised of the ITA Executive Director and coaches representing men's and women's tennis from all three NCAA Divisions, NAIA and Junior/Community Colleges. The ITA Board of Directors determines administrative policy for the association, and meets annually at the ITA Coaches Convention. Members can serve three renewable two-year terms, voted on by the membership. Coaches who have suggestions and ideas are encouraged to contact the Board of Director representative(s) for their division.

The ITA is the governing body of college tennis, overseeing men's and women's varsity tennis at NCAA Divisions I, II and III, NAIA and Junior/Community College, and over the past three decades has worked hard to achieve its charter goals:

"To foster and encourage the playing of intercollegiate tennis in accordance with the highest tradition of sportsmanship and consistent with the general objectives of higher education."

"To develop among the intercollegiate coaches a deeper sense of responsibility in teaching, promoting, maintaining and conducting the game of tennis."

"To educate and serve those individuals and groups who are involved in collegiate tennis: junior and college players, their coaches and parents, and the at-large tennis public."

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON TO HOST 2011 ITA NATIONAL MEN'S TEAM INDOOR CHAMPIONSHIP

16 Teams To Compete at the Nordstrom and Seattle Sports Clubs Feb. 18 – 21

SEATTLE, WA – The matchups have been set for the 16 teams competing in the 2011 Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) National Men's Team Indoor Championship. The University of Washington will host the 37th annual Championships at the Nordstrom Tennis Center and Seattle Sports Club.

Of the fifteen No.1 seeds participating in the third-annual ITA Division I Kick-Off Weekend competition, all 15 advanced for the first time, looking for an opportunity to capture the elusive National Team Indoor Championship title. Duke, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisville, Ohio State, Stanford, Tennessee, Texas, Texas A&M, Texas Tech, UCLA, USC and Virginia will join the Huskies of Washington.

The Nordstrom Tennis Center is one of the Northwest's most modern indoor tennis facilities. The doors of the indoor facility at the University of Washington were opened with dedication ceremonies on June 1, 1989. Later that year, the center was selected by the USTA's Technical Committee as one of the outstanding tennis facilities for 1989.

"The ITA is delighted to return to Seattle, marking the sixth time in the past 12 years that the University of Washington has graciously hosted the ITA Men's National Team Indoor Championship," said Executive Director, David A Benjamin. "I know that all of our varsity student-athletes are looking forward greatly to participating in one of the premier events in varsity collegiate tennis."

Venue • LLOYD NORDSTROM TENNIS CENTER

Located just north of Husky Stadium, the Lloyd Nordstrom Tennis Center is one of the Northwest's most modern indoor tennis facilities. The doors of the indoor facility at the University of Washington were opened with dedication ceremonies on June 1, 1989.

The tennis center, sporting six courts, was made possible by a $2.5 million donation from the family of the late Lloyd Nordstrom. Mr. Nordstrom played on the Husky varsity tennis team from 1930–1932 and was noted for his love of the game and his loyalty to the University. Illsley Nordstrom, his wife, said, "My family is proud to honor the memory of Lloyd W. Nordstrom with the presentation of this indoor tennis center to the University of Washington . . . we feel he would be honored and delighted."

All six courts at the Center have been renamed by Husky tennis donors. In 1999, Court Two was renamed Sosnowy Court in honor of the family that donated the first fully endowed scholarship for women's tennis. LaGayle and John Sosnowy established the Sosnowy Family Endowed Tennis Scholarship in recognition of their daughter and former Husky, Kori Sosnowy. Then later in the summer, the Sosnowy's dedicated Court One to UW's former athletic director, naming it Barbara Hedges Court. John, LaGayle and Kori Sosnowy also established the Barbara Hedges Endowed Women's Tennis Scholarship.

The Sosnowy's also dedicated Court Three to UW senior associate athletic director, Marie Tuite. They also established the Marie Tuite Endowed Women's Tennis Scholarship.

Court Four was named the Sedlock Family Court in recognition of the Thomas J. Sedlock Endowed Men's Tennis Scholarship established by Tom and Greta Sedlock.

Court Five was named "Sidney Pinch Court" in August 1990, in recognition of the $100,000 donation made by Pinch to the Washington tennis program. Pinch, a long-time Seattle businessman and Tye Club member, made the donation to fund, in perpetuity, one tennis scholarship each year.

The last court to be named was Court Six in 2003, named for Neal Dempsey in recognition of the Neal Dempsey Endowed Scholarship.

In addition to the six courts, the complex includes seating for up to 278 spectators, locker rooms, a snack bar and space for other support activities. The Lloyd Nordstrom Tennis Center aids the Huskies in recruiting the nation's top competitors to Seattle.

Prior to the opening of the tennis center, Husky tennis teams rented indoor courts for use during periods of cold and inclement weather.

In September of 1989, the Nordstrom Center was selected by the USTA's Technical Committee as one of the outstanding tennis facilities for 1989.

The USTA Facility Awards Program, now in its 21st year, was established to stimulate high standards in the construction industry and then to recognize facilities which make such a positive statement about the vitality of the game.

The tennis facility is used primarily as a competition and practice site for the Husky varsity men's and women's tennis teams. The center has also been made available to UW students, staff and faculty as scheduling permits.

VIRGINIA CROWNED THREE-TIME DEFENDING CHAMPION OF THE ITA NATIONAL MEN'S TEAM INDOOR CHAMPIONSHIP

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. – Tournament host University of Virginia has captured their third ITA National Men's Indoor Championship title after defeating the fifth-seeded Tennessee Volunteers today at the Boar's Head Sports Club, hosted by the University of Virginia.

The Cavaliers (8-1) fell behind early 1-0 as Tennessee (10-1) dominated doubles play. 2009 Campbell/ITA National Doubles Team of the Year, J.P. Smith and Davey Sandgren pounced on Michael Shabaz and Drew Courtney 8-1 at the No. 1 position while 12th-ranked Boris Conkic and Rhyne Williams downed Houston Barrick and Jarmere Jenkins at No. 2 doubles.

However, the Cavs quickly rebounded in singles, winning five of the six first sets. UVA finished off two of the wins to take a 2-1 lead, electrifying the crowd that broke a facility record of 1,250 on Saturday night, and never looked back. Barrick tied the match early at one a piece with his 6-2, 6-4 win over Matteo Fago at No. 5 singles. Fellow co-captain Lee Singer gave the Cavaliers the lead with his 6-2, 7-5 win over Davey Sandgren at the No. 6 position.

2009 ITA/D'Novo All-American Singles and Doubles Champion, J.P. Smith had defeated No. 3 Shabaz in straight sets during the fall, but Shabaz returned the favor by winning 6-4, 6-4 at the No. 1 position. Virginia took a 3-1 lead with Shabaz victory. This win snapped second-ranked Smith's 13-match dual match winning streak, dating back to last season.

"Michael is a big time player," said Boland. "He rises to the occasion. When the stakes are the highest, he raises the level of his play. When it comes to crunch time, he knows what it takes to be successful. He came up big for us today and I am not surprised at all by that.”

The victory was clinched at No. 4 singles by Courtney, who topped freshman Tennys Sandgren 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. This was a similar situation for Courtney as he was also the clinching match in the 2009 ITA National Indoor Championship in Chicago, Illinois.

Virginia becomes the second team in history to win three consecutive ITA National Team Indoor Championships. Stanford won the first three tournaments held from 1973-76. This event, which features 16 of the nation's top programs, has annually crowned a National Indoor Champion every year since 1973.
